"The Mystery of Golf"

Quality since 1987

Introducing Barend Botha
Ashworth Brand Ambassador
2025 Korn Ferry Tour Player

SPRING / SUMMER 2026

dedicated to the book

‘The Mystery of Golf’

by Arnold Haultain
first published in 1908

Wise words still holding true in our modern times
of playing a mystical and confounding game

Us golfers live for that fleeting moment when everything comes together in a perfect sequence of MIND / BODY / BALL

The feel of a FLUSHED shot square in the center of the clubface feeling the addictive vibration watching a ball flight with purpose on the intended line with correct distance

In that moment of synchronicity
A Oneness with the Universe

SYNCHRONICITY

There is no other game in which three fundamental factors - the physiological, the psychological, and the social or moral - are so intimately combined or so constantly called into play.

THE GOOD WALK

He who would attain self-knowledge should frequent the links.
If one seriously attempts the task, one will "find oneself" in golf.

TRANQUILITY

But always we must remember that as a condition precedent to all dexterity there must be first and foremost a cultivated tranquility. Without absolute tranquility of mind there can be no dexterity of muscle. For without trannquility of mind there can be no self confidence, no concentration of thought, no attention, no occlusion of extraneous influence.

Upon one thing I presume all golfers will be agreed, upon this, namely: that, all other things being equal (but they never are), the secret of success lies in two things: (1) Tranquility of mind; and (2) Dexterity of muscle.

ASHWORTH
GOLF COMPANY

The complexity of the anatomical and physiological process necessary for the drive - indeed for every stroke - in golf is truly terrifying. The club head has to describe two curves - an upward and a downward. The combined length of these curves must, in the drive, on the average, be nearly forty feet. The curves too must be described absolutely evenly and smoothly, and the velocity of the club in the descent must be accelerated by minute but rapid gradiations. All this is done by the contraction of tens of thousands of muscle fibrils obeying orders issued by tens of thousands of nerve-centers scattered all over the body - in the brain, the medulla, the spinal cord, the numberless neurones embedded in every portion of the anatomical frame; orders not issued all at once, but one after another - also absolutely evenly and smoothly- at intervals probably of tens of thousandths of a second. If the curves are not precise, if a single muscle fails to respond, if the timing is in the minutest degree irregular - the stroke is a failure... No wonder it is difficult.

Thank You Arnold Haultain for giving us such a wonderful book describing an indescribable game.

We look forward to working with you and your staff to supply style options to your golfing community.
